DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, 2, etc, it is not clear what all is meant and encompassed by the phrase, “vehicular speed variation rate limiter”. The specification on pages 4 and 5 recite the claimed “vehicular speed variation rate limiter”, but does not explain the meaning of the limitation. It is further not understood what all is meant and encompassed by “a response characteristic on a vehicular plane motion to be enabled to provide a predetermined response characteristics”. It is apparent that the applicant is using repetitive words that are meaningless. Other examples are “calculate a vehicular motion control mechanism command value”, etc.

In claim 1, it is not clear what all is meant and encompassed by the limitation, “the vehicular motion target value calculating section is configured to determine a map reference vehicle speed on the basis of an output of the vehicular velocity variation rate limiter”.

The application seems to be switching between “speed variation rate limiter” and “velocity variation rate limiter” in the claims. It is clear that the specification recites “speed variation rate limiter”. The rejection also applies to claims 3-11. In claim 3-11, the claim limitations appear to be very verbose rendering the scope of the invention unclear.

Art Unit: 3663

In claim 2, it is not clear what is meant and encompassed by “to increase the vehicular speed variation rate limit value (dVlimit)”. The applicant refers to the whole of fig. 7 as the vehicular speed variation rate limit value. Therefore, does applicant’s limitation imply increasing fig. 7? Further, the limitation, “the vehicular speed variation rate limit value (dVlimit)” lacks antecedent basis.

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

5. In claim 1, the limitation, “the vehicular motion target value calculating section is configured to determine a map reference vehicle speed on the basis of an output of the vehicular velocity variation rate limiter “is not enabled, although part of the limitation is recited word for word in the specification, one skilled in the art will not understand how to make the invention without the understanding the claimed “vehicular velocity variation rate limiter “. The limitation as claimed is new matter. The purpose of applicant’s invention is not clearly set forth and therefore is not enabled.

Claims 3-11 suffer the same deficiency and are thus not enabled even though the limitations are recited word for word in the specification.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 10/11/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The applicant is arguing that the claims as amended are clear. The examiner disagrees. It is noted that although applicant recites the limitation in the specification, the meaning therefor is not provided.

The 102 rejections have been withdrawn solely because of the 112 rejections above

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
